

THE REED

Fig. days of bell, poor shills of Calu, Thy strongth the clave of want may be: The seconth thy limbs escape the chain And thut bath made thee free.

Ah! tender was the law that gave. This kely resplie to the head? To breathe the gale, to want the wave, And know the wheel may reed!

But where the waves the gentlest glide, What heavy charms to lift thine eyes? The spire reflected on the tide Invites thee to the skies.

To teach the sent its nobler worth, This rest from mortal toil is given; Go, much the brief reprieve from earth, And pass a glass to heaven.

They tell thee, in their dreaming school, Of power from old dominion learled; Which rich and poor, with juster rule, Shall share the altered world.

Alast since time itself began, That hible both but feeled the hour; Each age that ripens power and man, But subjects man to power.

Yet every day in seven at least, One bright republic shall be known; Man's world awhile bath surely ceased When God proclaims his own !

Six days may rank divide the poor, O Dives, from thy banquet hall ! The seventh the Father opes the door, And holds his feast for all!
